FOREVER YOUNG

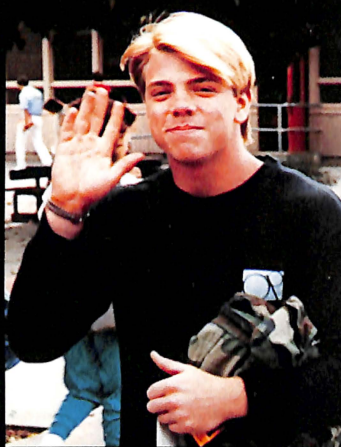

When the year began, no one on campus knew exactly what to expect. The Seniors were determined to make their last year at Vaca High their best. The Juniors just wanted to make it through the year as fast as possible. The Sophomores were content just to survive their first full day on campus.

As the year progressed, students began to feel a little more comfortable. Each senior somehow managed to contract a mild case of "senioritis". It became harder and harder to get out of bed in the mornings; the days seemed endless. The Juniors, on the other hand, continued to plough on. With endless amounts of school work they kept very busy. While the Seniors were partying and the Juniors were working, the Sophomores settled into their new surroundings.

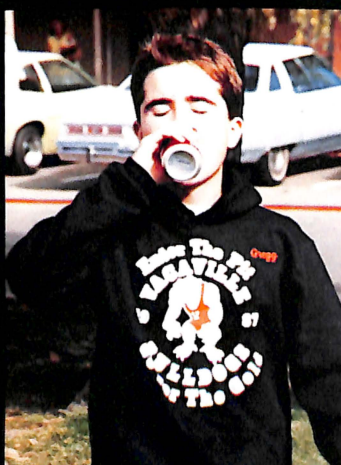

As the year drew to an end, everyone began to reflect back on good times spent with close friends. The Seniors secretly wished that they could turn back the clock and start the year all over again. Graduation brought with it the reality of their situation. They would soon be forced to leave the people with whom they shared the best years of their lives. Many felt that they were somehow leaving their youth behind. In fact, youth would be with them always in spirit just as the people they left behind would be with them in thought.

DISTINGUISHED.....

And Proud of It!

In 1986, Vacaville High School was chosen as a distinguished school by the California School Recognition Program. This program was set up to recognize schools that raised academic standards, improved the quality of curriculum, increased test scores, and involved members of the business and school community in their schools. Vacaville High School received this award because of its all-around success in providing educational programs for students.

On October 8, 1986, students attended the dedication ceremony. Mrs. Powell presented Laura North, ASB Vice-President, with a plaque and flag which identified Vacaville High School as a distinguished school. As the flag was raised, black and orange balloons floated up through the air and teachers distributed cookies to their students. It was an occasion to remember.

Life

2 MINUTE SHUFFLE

There comes a time in everyone's life when they must face the moment of truth. That time, for Vaca High students comes about two minutes before class. The bell rings, your heart jumps, your feet kick in gear, and you're off.

You race through the hall at Olympic pace, dodging poles, trees, and other participants in the Two Minute Shuffle. Ahead, moving towards you at a terrifying pace is the target. Within seconds, you can read the number on the door. You think it's 34, but wait!— it's 33. It's too late, you crash through the door and everyone stares. Wrong class! Oh no! The clock ticks, only fractions of seconds remain between you and a 15 minute detention. You dive out the door, stumble across one more row of lockers and dive into room 34 face first. You roll across the floor, the bell rolls across your mind— safe at last. Now you can sit down and fall asleep.

SPIRIT OF VACA HIGH

What is spirit? Where can you get it? Do you have it? Do you even want it? Our school spirit is one of the things that helped move the year along, breaking the monotony of tests and term papers.

Fridays meant football and football meant fun and frolic for everyone. The cheerleaders cheered, the band blared, and the players played their game.

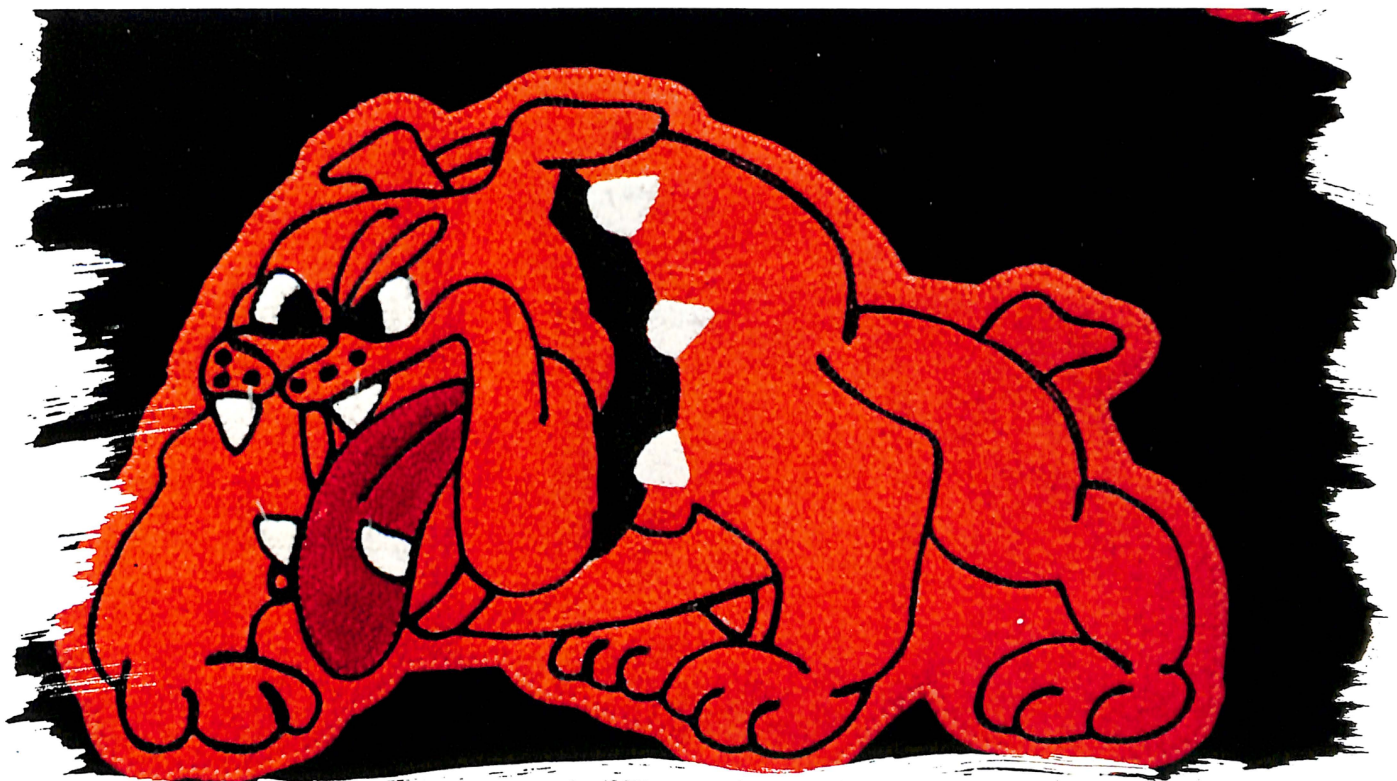

Spirit: black and orange, the colors of true winners. Throughout the year, we displayed spirit in various ways. During Homecoming Week we dressed in black and orange and that night we cheered our black and orange to domination over Bella Vista.

We cheered at the games and we wore our school colors proudly. We supplied the support for the very essence of the athletic department. Yes, in a way we are black and orange.

FOREVER FRIENDS

Dear friend

We all needed someone
To stand by our side,
Brighten our day,
Rain or shine.

Some special person
Who would understand,
Without a doubt,
Without a stand.

Someone to talk out
The everyday grind
Of homework,
Teachers,
And especially
"lunch time!"

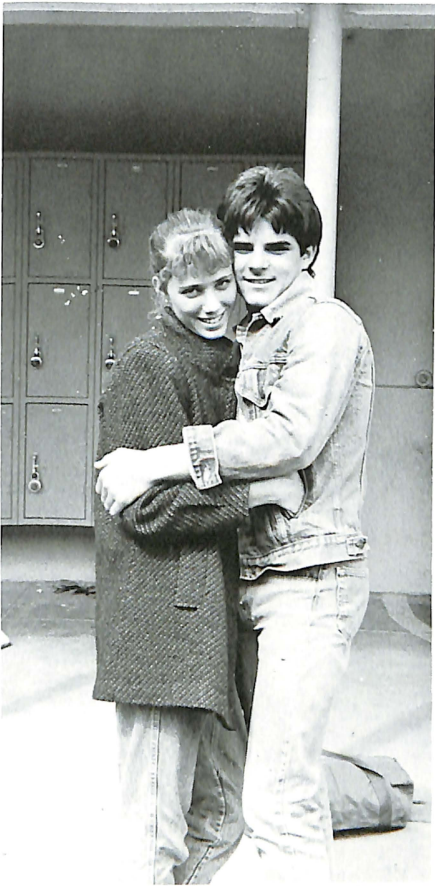

I'll always remember
The heart-breaks we shared,
The cars we wanted,
The jobs that we dared.

Remember the weekend retreats,
Without folks,
The parties,
The games,
And all the forged notes?

For all the things we will share,
And the things we will do,
I hereby bequeath my friendship,
To you.

A BIT OF HOMECOMING FUN

The tradition of Homecoming continued this year with a week of festivities. Kicked off with carnation sales and servant sales, the campus was transformed into a hub of activity and spirit. Members of Student Council, the Pep Squad and other volunteers were auctioned off during lunch for servant sales. Over the weekend the servants anxiously anticipated what their duties would be on Monday. When Monday finally arrived, scuba divers, Christmas trees, a karate expert, and people in pajamas could be seen running around carrying books, singing songs, and doing various other things for their masters.

Along with Tuesday came the infamous Sock Hop in the Senior Square. The faculty pulled out their old letterman sweaters and boogied to 'Let's Go To The Hop', 'Johnny Be Good', and 'Twist and Shout'. On Wednesday the Drama Club sponsored a Melodrama featuring pantomiming, joke telling, and lip-synching. Thursday brought class dress-up day and a fashion show. The faculty dressed as Vietnam Veterans, the sophomores as the rockin' 50's, the juniors as the surfin' 60's, and the seniors in togas.

Finally, the big day came. Vaca High students and faculty showed their spirit by wearing orange and black. A rally got the spirit flowing, and the dance on Saturday wound down the Homecoming festivities. Homecoming '86 was a success.

BULLDOGS BUST BRONCOS

After the "exciting" Homecoming festivities were over, the question was asked: What did you think about Homecoming this year? Many students had original thoughts and here are some of the most creative-Heather Hallums- The activities during lunch made it enjoyable.
Tracy Thompson- I thought it was pretty well organized.
Heather Tyrrel- The activities were better than last year.
Dawn Robinson- I thought it was thoroughly enjoyable.
Laura North- I thought it was wonderful, it was the best ever.
Chris Wold- It seemed like everyone was excited and really wanted to be involved.

Shawna Swiger- I thought it was really energized, people showed a lot of spirit.

Greg Eldridge- I thought the activities were great.

Tiffany Tung- Everyone seemed to get involved in the activities.

Micah Shull- It was really hip!!

And the new Homecoming Queen is These were the words long awaited to be heard by our student body. On the stage stood our Homecoming Court. The crowd sat waiting to applaud our newly elected Queen. Each nominee clutched her escort and stared into the waterfall of light. Surrounded by hundreds of hounding eyes, all stood proud with gleaming smiles.

That glorious moment arrived. The rumble of the speaker blurbs out the 1986 Homecoming Queens name — Heather Wolf! All attention focused on the newly crowned Queen. The Queen was showered by photographer's flashes. As she and her escort trailed off the perch, the book closed. The fairy tale story finally became reality.

1986/1987 Homecoming Queen!

Jeff Horn gallantly leads Heather to the platform. Little does she know that glory awaits her.

SUNNY DAZE

Summer Sun

Great is the sun, and wide he goes
Through empty heaven repose.
And in the blue and glowing days
More thick than rain he showers his rays.

Though closer still the blinds we pull
To keep the shady parlor cool,
Yet he will find a clink or two
To slip his golden fingers through.

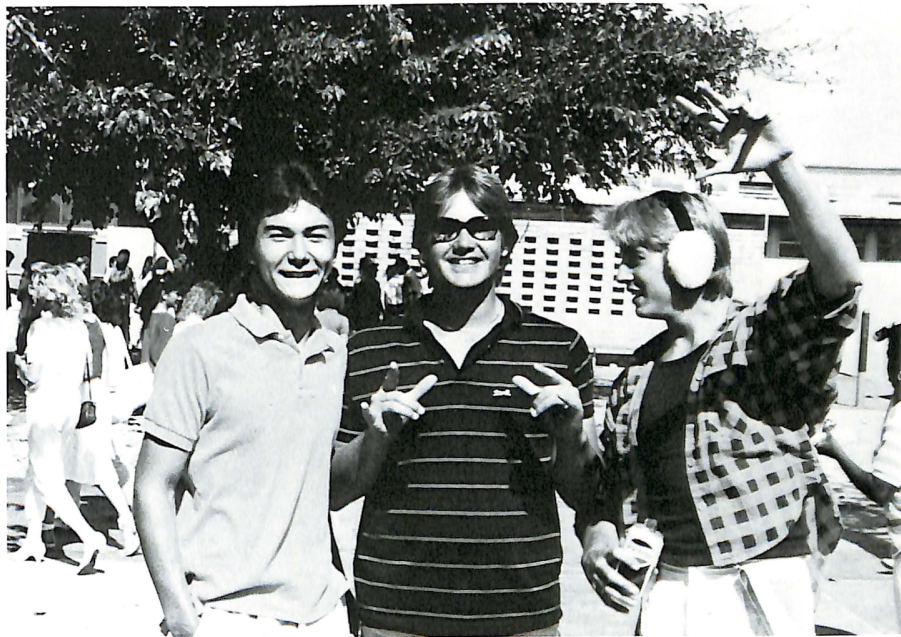

The dusty attic spider-clad
He, through the keyhole, maketh glad;
And through the broken edge of tiles
Into the laddered hayloft smiles.

Meantime, his golden face around
He bares to all the garden ground,
And sheds a warm and glittering look.
Among the ivy's in most nook.

Above the hills, along the blue,
Round the bright air and footing true.
To please the child, to paint the rose,
The gardener of the world he goes.

Robert Louis Stevenson

Fun in the Sun

The summer season was a favorite season for nearly all Vaca High students. It not only was a time for relaxation, but, for some, it was a time of excitement and never-ending activity! However, everyone had a different idea of how to have a little "fun in the sun." For instance, many students enjoyed planning a day's activities at the beach. While some found it pleasing to walk barefoot in the sand, with the tide splashing at their feet, others chose activities not so moderately paced—such as chasing seagulls after a long exhausting day of collecting shells. Other students enjoyed chasing members of the opposite sex. In any case, the beach provided an unlimited amount of summer activities.

The beach was not the only source of "fun in the sun." Another example was gathering a large group of friends together and indulging in water fights. On warm, sunny days, students found pleasure in washing their cars in front of their homes. Water sports were very popular during the sunny season. Many people enjoyed sports, such as water skiing and boating. However, a great deal of students took part in sports which were a little more recreational. Baseball, softball, and volleyball were all popular among Vaca High students. These sports may be played at home, as well as at near by parks and schools.

When asked, Tammy Graham's idea of "fun in the sun" was being on the highest mountain in the Alps on June 28! As you can see, everyone had different ideas about having "fun in the sun." While some enjoyed the active scene, others enjoyed the quiet, relaxing aspects of a warm, sunny day's activities.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Deciding upon a way to express oneself has been a problem for high school students for many years. Some choose to express themselves through the clothes they wear, others through the music they listen to, and still others define expression as the uniqueness of a tiny living space provided by their school: their locker.

Beginning the Friday before school starts, the day which lockers are claimed, the annual ritual of locker decorating is undertaken by the students of Vacaville High School. Some spray paint their lockers, others wallpaper, and still others rely on pasting up pictures. In each locker a definite style is set up, whether it be plain or complex, the owner has total control.

Lockers in this day and age have become more than a place to put books, they have become rather, a way of expression. Students at Vacaville High School have seized this idea and have used it to satisfy their need for creativeness. Who knows what will happen next?

WORKING FOR A LIVING

Money- Your life as a Vaca High student depends on it, whether you like it or not. Since most of us don't have it at our disposal, what do we do? GET A JOB! Working for a living, taking what they're giving. If you want income you have to play the game, the game of life. So you go to work, usually at a fast food choke and puke stop, where you sling your beef around for a few hours a night. The wages are low so you seek higher employment. If you're lucky you'll get a job at the mall selling clothes or delivering pizzas to parties you wish you were at.

Work, like school, has many drawbacks and advantages, money being one, though you usually don't have time to spend it. A car becomes necessary to get back and forth to work. So your parents might be more easily talked into buying you one of those 4 wheel wonders. In many cases where you work influences your social life. If you worked as an usher at the dollar theatre, you would be able to meet more people. If you worked at Burger King, flamebroiling Whoppers, you probably wouldn't have a great social life (face it it's hard to get a date smelling like 2 all beef patties, special sauce, lettuce and cheese).

Cruising to School

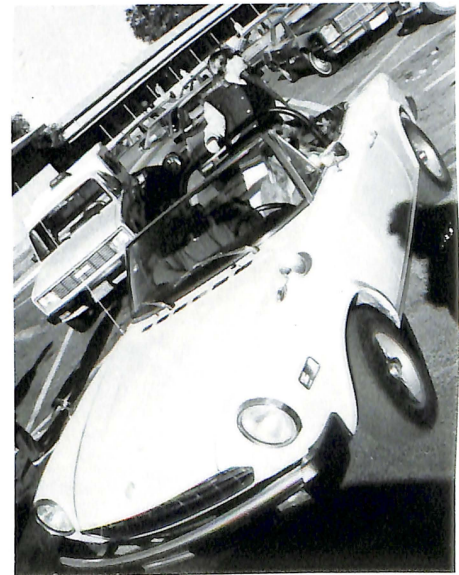

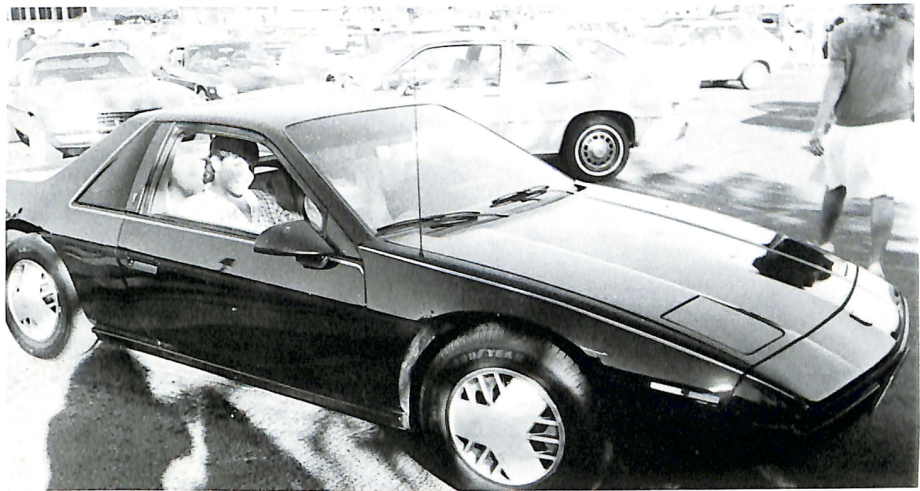

Teenagers this past year came to school in cars of many shapes and sizes. They arrived in big brown ones, little blue economy sizes, and jacked up suped up ones. Yes the automobile, the teenagers major form of transportation.

As a sophomore, you sit through hours of Drivers Ed fantasizing of getting behind the wheel and racing through the streets of Vacaville at Indy speed. Then you put in hours of behind the wheel training in one of Vaca High's innovative excuses for cars. Then the day arrives, your sixteenth birthday, down to the DMV for your test. You've passed! If your'e lucky you get four wheels of your own,if your'e even luckier you get a car to go along with them. You cruise to school with your chin in the air, because you know your bad. You can even go to the Hamburger Stand across town, because you have the proper means of transportation.

By the time your'e a senior you realize that driving is yet another responsibility that society has thrust upon you during your care free youth. But, that doesn't stop you from taking off for the beach when you should be doing yard work.

Practices for the Junior Varsity Football team were long and difficult. With much effort and dedication, the team was able to make use of all its potential at each game. With a record of five wins, four losses, and one tie, the JV dogs put up a good struggle, and made their coaches proud.

Ken Showalter threw 76 passes for 45 completions and 834 yards. The runningbacks who attained the most yards rushing were Thomas Sands, who had 54 carries for 375 yards, and Tim Patelzick, who had 42 carries for 235 yards. Steve Davis was also a major factor in the offence as the teams leading receiver, with 7 touchdown receptions.

Darren Stringer receives the ball on the punt return. He's lightning in human form running down the field. Cordova can't stop him! They can't even touch him! The crowd is roaring and screaming "GO" in unison. This will be the first time in thirteen years that Vacaville beats Cordova, the team that kept the Bulldogs from last year's championship. Stringer's passed the 30, the 20, the 10—he's in the end zone! TOUCHDOWN! The stands are wild with excitement! But wait, as the roar subsides the announcer finally is heard crying out, "THERE'S A FLAG ON THE PLAY! THERE'S A FLAG ON THE PLAY!"

The enthusiasm of spirit-filled fans cheered Vacaville's Varsity Football team to many victories. With excellent coaching and determination, each player worked hard to bring forth their talent, strength, and energy which resulted in a successful season. With the defeat of Armijo, quarterback Dave Lafferty led the bulldogs on to the playoffs.

A sudden wave of silence hushed the crowd into noiseless anticipation. All eyes fell upon Shari Pederson as she prepared herself for the serve. Gracefully she lunged forward and the ball was shot into the air, onto the other side of the net. There it was met with a pounding blow and was hurled once more into the air. The ball bounced from side to side for what seemed like an eternity. Finally, a roar of cheers filled the gymnasium as Vacaville's Junior Varsity Volleyball team scored another well earned point.

This was the results of hours of practice. Everyday the JV Volleyball team practiced for 3 hours gaining strong knowledge of the game. As a team the players strove to work hard and maintain a positive attitude about themselves and the sport in which they desired to compete

They won, for the 5th year in a row, the All-City tournament. Their league record was 9-3. This team worked hard and earned 2nd place.

The most valuable players of the team were Ingrid Bendza and Shari Pederson, their co-captains. Ingrid, Shari, and the rest of the team have learned that hard work and a good attitude can help in achieving victory.

A GREAT YEAR FOR VOLLEYBALL

Danette Mercado floats the winning ball over the net. The opposing team hurls it back with force. Lacey Mancini saves it with a bump and delivers it to Amy Cambell who sets it to Ginger Shepard. The spike is drilled into the opposing team's court with such force that it echoes throughout the gym. There is a moment of silence, then the crowd goes wild as the Lady Bulldogs earn the victory point.

This was a common sight for the 1986 Vacaville Varsity Volleyball team. Their long practices gave them the skills and endurance which would bring them 7 victories. All the players worked very hard. Mrs. Wettstein, their coach, was pleased with the dedication the Lady Bulldogs showed both in practice and on the court.

The difference in the make-up of the team was the seniors. There were only two- Dannette Mercado and Ginger Shepard had the experience, leadership, and skill to lead the team. They both served as the captains. The rest of the team consisted of Juniors and one sophomore. For the 5th year in a row the Varsity team won the All-City tournament and qualified for the section playoffs. They ended with a league record of 7-5 and came in 3rd place.

A one touch pass and he's gone. A Vaca forward on a breakaway! Defense closing in, a quick fake, and a shot to the far post, past the outstretched goalie. Vaca JV soccer scores again!

One of the most demanding sports this past year was Junior Varsity Soccer. The JV Soccer Team consisted of twenty-two hardworking, dedicated players. These players put in many hours of practice improving their skills. Soccer is not just an individual, but a team working together for one goal. So, everyone on the team had to work together. Playing on the team gave many players confidence in themselves and their teammates.

Many of the JV Soccer players participated in the sport in order to be involved in a school activity. Others played because their friends did, or because they wanted to make new friends. Whatever the reason may have been, everyone gave his all. Achieving the ranks of MEL League Champions was the final reward that Matt Capps and the rest of the teammates received for their hard work. Putting an effort into anything, may it be work, school, or Junior Varsity Soccer, is what makes winners.

MEL CHAMPS ONCE AGAIN

*top: C'mon, Brad! You can do it.

BANG! The gun sounds! Instantly, twenty people charge ahead. In the herd of runners Mason Meyers vies for a solid position, concentrating solely on himself and his race. He sets his tempo and pace, paying specific attention to the mechanics of the race. He refuses to stay back with the pack, competing only with himself. The constant push leads him to the finish line. Victory once again.

Practice did make perfect. No one knew better than the cross country team. Averaging about forty miles per week, our runners were able to endure the season and came out victorious. Carrying on the MEL League Championship title, the cross country team pushed ahead, not letting anyone take them out of stride.

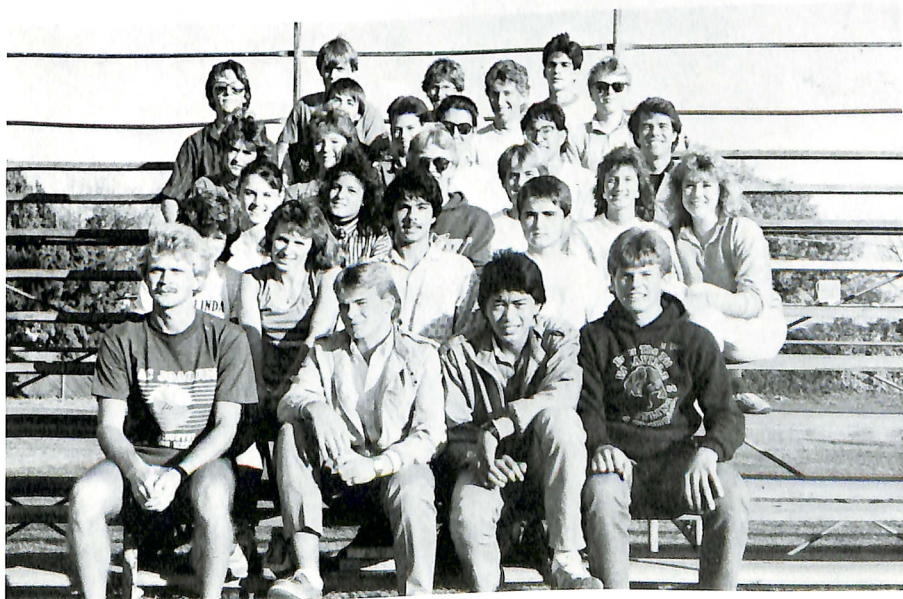

Coaches Mike Larsen and Don Clancy were very pleased with the performance of this year's team and proud of the effort each member put out. Effort, indeed. With the competition course three miles long, up and down hills, it took determination and dedication to carry through to the end.

When asked what went through his mind when the gun went off, senior Brad Jarvinen's only words were, "The Finish!". Victory was achieved by hard work and dedication. For this cross country team, the end was sweet.

BULLDOGS KICK . . .

right: Oh Matt, don't spit! That's gross.

With only minutes to spare, the ball is efficiently passed to the center who frantically shuffles the ball to the halfback. The goal is now in sight. Randy Dedini crouches expectantly and springs into the air to meet the ball. Another game-winning goal blocked by his experienced hands.

Vacaville High School's Varsity Soccer team demonstrated many fine qualities this season. When challenge confronted them they rose to the occasion, not once letting defeat overpower their will to win. This quality led to an outstanding 3-0 victory over Napa, an unforgettable moment for the whole team!

"A successful team is one that works to benefit the whole, rather than the individual," stated coach Korman. Cooperation was the key to success. Each teammate had to be willing to work at practice as well as in the game.

A highlight of the season took place during the bout with Fairfield. James Freeney scored four goals in the first half. A "hat trick" is given to such an accomplishment in soccer.

This years team had an inspiring rally call- a loud, high pitched, Saturday Night Fever scream. Kenny "John Travolta" Beckwith symbolized the rally call.

Sweat and noise fill the room. Tired, muscular bodies slam each other against the mat. The crowd is screaming desperately for Vacaville wrestler Aaron Cantrell to get a pin. Aaron grips the Vintage man tightly around the waist and flings him on the mat. Aaron lunges on top of his sprawled out opponent and pins him. The crowd roars as the bulldogs collect six more points.

At the beginning of the season, the Vacaville Bulldog Wrestling team got off to a slow start. However, they gradually improved their shape and technique. Thanks to the dedicated coaches Larry and Dave Nelson, the team was built up to take their eleventh straight MEL League Championship and second Sac-Joaquin team playoffs. Six out of eight Vacaville wrestlers took first place in the finals. They were: Eric Mcdermat, Al Re, Gary Jones, Matt Davis, Aaron Cantrell, and Harvey James. The entire team qualified for Sub Sections. Unfortunately, this year, Brian Sammons, Don Ynostroza, and Greg Eldrige suffered injuries that prevented them from having a complete season. Nevertheless, they did not hesitate to give their team moral support. Another excellent year for Vacaville wrestlers. Cantrell, James, and Re all made it to the State Championship where Albert Re placed 1st.

....and the Vaca High gym is packed with fans intently watching the junior varsity bulldogs running up and down the court. Once again Alex Hall has possession of the ball and he's heading for the basket. Hogan's players are trying to stop him, but he is just too good a basketball player. Alex is now within shooting range and he makes another all-net shot! This is another definite victory for the JV bulldogs.

With an average height of 6'1", the JV basketball team was on of the biggest teams in the league. This was one of their greatest assets, helping them post an overall record of 14 wins and 10 losses. This was Mr. Turbovsky's first year in coaching the bullpups. He felt that although the team sometimes started slow, motivation would soon pick up and help them win the game. Alex Hall's 16 points per game also helped post a victory. Scott Halloms and Mike Brown tallied up the rebounds with 10-12 per game.

"Playing high school basketball has been a learning experience for the entire JV team," claim Alex Hall and Parrish Haynes.

The ball has just been thrown into play signifying the start of the fourth quarter. Armijo has taken the lead. The bulldogs realize that this is their last chance to set the record straight with Armijo. Defeated by the indians previously in the season, the bulldogs must win this game and avenge their loss. James Thomas is miraculous on the court. It's as if he just come in contact with a huge burst of energy. It's one basket after another. We are down to the final seconds of the game and have just pulled ahead by three points. The ball has been knocked out of bounds by the indians, with only two seconds remaining. The crowd notices the clock and is in an uproar. The bulldogs will win this game.

Enthusiasm was the key that carried the Varsity bulldogs through a trying season. Getting the ball to the forwards presented somewhat of a problem to this relatively young team. Fortunately Chris LaQuay didn't have too many problems receiving the ball, for he averaged 16.9 points per game. This ranked him among the top as he was titled second leading scorer in Solano County. Chris also was the teams leading rebounder with nine per game. The bulldogs had a successful pre-season with a record of 10 wins and 3 losses. They survived a difficult season. Good job guys!

Racheal Wieck runs down the floor, trying to defend the fast break. She steps in front of the Napa player and swipes away the ball. Racheal sees Geri Turner wide open under their basket. A long pass reaches Geri who then puts it in the basket for two more points.

Outstanding performances were the only way to go as far as the junior varsity team was concerned. Their excellent record (undefeated in league play) was an indication of this. Coach, Jeanie Calamar, was very impressed with the improvement the team showed throughout the season.

Ms. Calamar had devised a strategy for the J.V. girls that led them to their victorious season. It was all based upon the other teams they played. They pressured the ball the other team's weakness and caused the opposing team to make mistakes. Her advise before a game was always, "Run the ball, pressure the ball, control the boards, and you will win."

With the leadership skills of Geri Turner and Shari Peterson coming back from a pre-season injury the J.V. team displayed strength, endurance and teamwork. They put it all together, added water, and came out with a great year!

Ginger Shepard jumps for the rebound. She throws it down the court to Paula Creamer, who dribbles it the top of the key. The ball is passed back and forth while the final seconds tick off the clock. Ashley Stevens goes up for the final shot. The ball follows the rim around as the buzzer sounds, it drops in the net. The point changes as the Lady Bulldogs win another game.

It was a learning year for the thirteen member team. The team consisted of two seniors, ten juniors and one sophomore. Hard work, long practices and friendship molded the team together. All of these combined made it a fun year for the Lady Bulldogs.

Ashley Stevens, the leading scorer, was an outstanding player. She became the backbone of the team. Ginger Shepard, the other senior, was someone the young team could look up to. The versatility of this team was what made them even better than last year.

Versatility and intense practices were the core of the Lady Bulldogs. Two or three hour practices made it a learning year for all members. Most of the team agreed that running lines was the hardest part.

With a final II game winning streak, Coach Baker led the team to a 2nd place standing and a position in the Tournament of Champions. Lu Wagner and Tracy Lopez made the All-Section Tournament team.

The 1987 Vacaville High senior and junior girls battled it out on the football field. It was a game played with much enthusiasm and effort, coached by senior and junior males from the Varsity Football Team. Each team had its own set of cheerleaders to root them on.

The game was serious and quite vicious. It seemed more like tackle football than flag football. After the dust settled, the scoreboard revealed that the game was a tie! Both teams were equally tough.

.....and it's the bottom of the ninth here at Keating Park. The temperature seems to be rising with each passing second. Vacaville is on the field, there are two outs and the bases are loaded. Paul Crabtree is on the mound evaluating his situation. The score is tied and the count on the batter is three and two. Paul knows this next pitch must be a perfect fast ball straight up the middle. Sweat glistens on Paul's forehead as he starts his wind up. In a matter of seconds the motion is complete and the baseball is zipping through the air. Strike Three! Batter's out! Another victory for Vacaville.

Every afternoon during baseball season the Vacaville Bulldogs Baseball Team was either practicing or at a game. Under the guidance of Coach Fernandez, the team was able to maintain an impressive record and truly excel out on the diamond. With athletic achievers like Aaron Abercrombie, James Thomas, David Lafferty, Kevin Kramer, and Shan Eakin, to name a few, Vacaville was a dominating power in the league.

With a quick spin and sharp throw Paul delivers the ball to Chris McCool at second base who quickly rifles the ball to first for, yes, a double play!

The 1987 J.V. Baseball Team consisted of sophomores and a couple of freshmen. Coach Pierson was pleased with the wonderful performances of his players. With winning in mind, the J.V. team worked their hardest and made their mommies proud.

Shawna leaps towards the ball, the umpire yells "Out!", and the Lady Bulldogs make another great defensive play.

This year the team was led by the best pitching staff in the M.E.L. It consisted of two seniors, Wendy Mayfield and Monica Canalita, and two juniors, Cheryl Cameron and Mona Canalita. Ginger Shepherd, Danielle Widemann, and the rest of the players made double plays and spectacular catches all season long.

During an interview, Coach Wara was asked, "What qualities make for a winning team?" She cheerfully replied, "An enthusiastic group of girls, certainly talent, and cooperation!" Talent was the word to describe the Lady Bulldogs.

Another ball whizzed by Michelle Swenson. Two outs, the team was silent as the bat was lifted. A perfect connection, as it swirls off past center field. The tie was broken and Vaca High

J.V. Girls Softball team won another game.

This years J.V. Softball team was quite extraordinary for having only one returning player from the previous year. Nine girls had Bobby Sox experience which helped this group of talented girls strive for goals which may have seemed impossible. Four of the players were found in the ninth grade but all of them pitched in together to make this the best year yet.

Not only was the team young but the coach was also. Coach Ray was an inexperienced yet talented coach that could push the team to their maximum. He was proud of all the girls' attitude and drive this year.

VICTORY IS ONLY A HOP, SKIP, AND A JUMP AWAY

The sun blazes on a hot Wednesday afternoon. We are out at the triple-jump pit as Chris Carson prepares to take his final jump. So far he has leaped 37'-11" and 39'-11". In order to take first, he must jump at least 40'-8". He sprints down the runway, and begins to jump with his right foot. There is a terrible cross wind that threatens to throw Chris off balance. The jump is complete and Chris lands in the pit with a confident grin on his face. The jump has been measured and—Yes! Chris has taken first with a jump of 40'-8 1/2".

Once again the Vacaville High Track team has finished the season with a terrific record. The amazing skills of the dedicated coaches and the talent and determination of every athlete involved was responsible for the many victories. The members of the team were like one big happy family. They all helped each other out, and gave each other a lot of support. With role models like Mason Myers, Chris LaQuay, Chris Carson, and Dee Dee Coate, the team's newcomers had great examples to look up to.

"Girls, get ready for the 50 free," calls the starter. Kelly is ready. BANG! , the gun sounds, and the swimmers are off. Kelly takes the lead with her long, hard strokes. She nears the wall, preparing for her flip turn. Underestimating the distance, her heels hit the edge of the pool. Kelly keeps going, but there is a trail of blood in the water. She pulls hard toward the end, while the entire team waits to see if she is all right. Kelly wins the event, but is hurting from her crash. Both heels are sliced, and she is rushed off to the hospital for stitches.

This was just an example of the dedication that was evident on both the swimming and diving teams this year. Cheering one another, and working together was a key factor in the success the teams experienced. The diving team set high goals, and worked hard to eventually accomplish them. It was a very exciting year.

HOLE IN ONE

Eric Manning stares at the twenty feet of green between his ball and the hole apprehensively as his teammates look on. He miraculously putts the ball in the heart of the cup accompanied by the cheers of the onlookers.

To Eric and the others on the Golf Team the scene described above was all in a days work. Each faced miles of walking every week but the real challenge came in the form of mental preparation by this sport dominated by psychology.

Evidently, the Vacaville Golf Team had all of the tools it needed to make this year the success they wanted.

A BIRD IN THE HAND

Karen steps up to the backline knowing that if she can convert this serve into a point, her team will win the tournament. In a split second her mind's made up; she adjusts herself, and serves. The bird, careening off of her racquet, finds itself over the net and on a course destined for the floor. In a diving effort, her opponent tries to reach the birdie but to no avail as it just passes her and sends Vacaville on to victory.

This is the kind of action the Badminton Team faced throughout the season. They obviously came through with flying colors.

top right: Julie Hatcher says, "Come on guys, where's the birdie?"

top: Jan Ventura's not posing for a sculpture, she's playing badminton.

SERVING IT UP

The match is tied. Jeff Staples is in the middle of the determining set. He serves up the ball and his opponent makes a backhand return. The rally begins. Both players drip with sweat, thier tired muscles ache. Jeff hits the ball over the net in a dynamic manuever; it is impossible for his opponent to return it! Jeff has won the match and Vacaville wins overall.

This year's Boys Tennis Team began with a positive attitude. Under the leadership of a new coach, Donald López, the team was able to display all its talent on the court. With the returning seniors and Federico (Deco) Francisco, an exchange student from Brazil, the team performed excellently. They have an impressive record to prove it.

SMASHING IT BACK

.....and the score is 40-15. Julie Hatcher serves and the ball smacks into the opposite court. The ball returns from a backhand hit and the exciting game continues. Both players tire and sweat glistens on their faces. But look, Julie has just made a miraculous hit. Her opponent can't reach it in time! The match is over. Julie is the victor once again.

The 1987 Girls Tennis Team consisted of one senior, Julie Hatcher and the rest of the players were sophomores. Julie was voted most valuable player. Gina Capellino was voted most improved. Lastly, Ariane Venson was voted most improved. Under the new coach Donald Lopez, the girls had an overall good season.

What does being a Junior Mean to you?

Richard Cox-Nothing really. It is a new year, but I am looking forward to my last year. It's a lot better than being a Sophomore.

Clay Collins-I don't know. Being a Junior is just like knowing everything. It's not all new, but your still not an upper classman. I still have one year ahead of me.

Sarah Rusby-One year closer to freedom. It's kind of scary because I don't know what I'm going to do, and I don't know what school I am going to go to.

THE CHRISTMAS BALL

Vacaville's First Real White Christmas

During the winter, Vacaville High School was transformed into a school where people rushed to get to class, bundled to keep warm and, on the whole, were unsocial because of the weather. The fog and cold could not, however, put a damper on the 1986 Christmas Ball. The fog brought with it the illusion of Vacaville's first real White Christmas.

The juniors, who had been planning the Christmas Ball for months, had the task of decorating the Community Center. Balloons, streamers, and lights were everywhere giving a party atmosphere to the White Christmas theme.

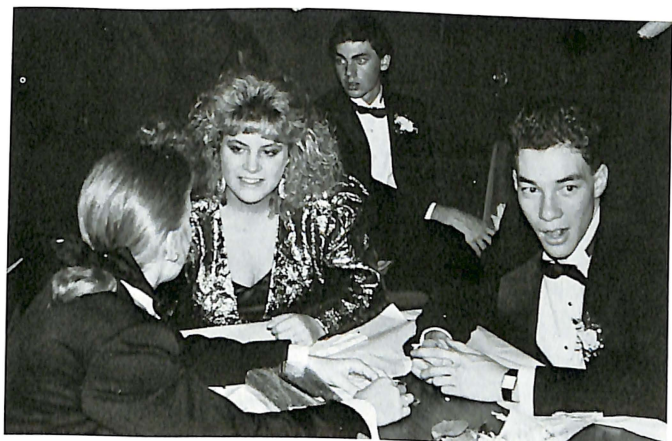

As people began arriving one could sense that this night was to be a release for many. The evening became a chance to get rid of those midterm blues and to have a little fun doing it. Students shed their faded 50s and emerged as actual human beings. It became almost impossible to identify anyone in the endless sea of tuxedos and rustling petticoats. Many danced the night away to the sounds played by the D.J. Others socialized with friends they hadn't seen in months. In order to preserve the memory many had their picture taken.

As the evening drew to a close, everyone knew that the Christmas Ball was not soon to be forgotten.

A Magical Playground of Winter Frolic.

Every December at Vaca High, sleigh bells ring, Santa arrives, and Carrington parties. It has been a tradition since time began, or least since Carrington began. The students in Mr. Carrington's classes competed against one another in the hopes of winning "Carrington's Christmas". Each class elected leaders, decided on a theme, and began to gather their materials. After weeks of waiting, the day finally arrived. It was a time of work and socializing. The Little Theatre once again was transformed into a magical playground of winter frolic. When Vaca High closed for Christmas vacation, many plans included a stop at Carrington's party to dance, eat, and be merry. The entire experience was as much fun as it was work. The music, which Aaron Lord and his Merry Musicians provided, set the mood for a wonderful Christmas.

The winner was second period with "Candyland". It was a tiny town of gingerbread houses and peppermint sticks. Fourth period was a close second with "Jungle Christmas". Third period came in third with "Christmas on Ice". First period set up their own Christmas as fifth period moved to the beat of their D.J.

Everything came up snowflakes for all classes. The ceiling came down and the lights went back up. Another year ended, but Carrington's Christmas will never be forgotten.

Valentines, Royalty, and Hearts Galore!

Hearts, balloons, glitter guns, fog machines, bubble machines, and a great disc jockey set the scene for the Winter Festival Dance. This was no ordinary dance, however, it was filled with suspense, romance and royalty. The three nominees for Winter Festival King 1987 anxiously anticipated the moment the King would be crowned.

At 10:00 pm on Saturday, Feb. 14 the crowning ceremony began. With huge hearts on the wall for each member of the court, the stage was set. Emerging from a festive arch came the Sophomore Squire Marcus Greggerson and his escort Katy Ewing; the Junior Duke James Brandeberry and escort Laura North; Senior Knight Darren Thompson and his escort, Shawn Baldwin. Following this, the nominees for King were announced: Aaron Cantrell and escort Suzanne Green, Eric Cavaliere and escort Dale Dottl, and Jeff Horn and escort Karen Harper.

The tension mounted, everyone wondering who would be named King. Finally Veronica Piper teased, "... and the King is (a long pause ...) Aaron Cantrell!!!!" Every person in the gym clapped as the royal couples danced to "Friends and Lovers".

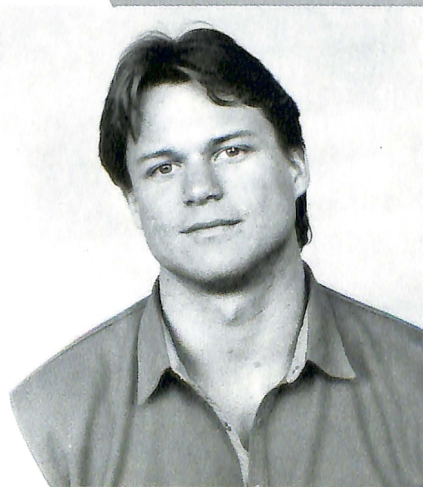

Student Council worked hard to make Winter Festival '87 a success — and succeed they did.

WINTER FESTIVAL WEEK 1987

Winter Festival went off with a clamor. The Festival is similar to Homecoming, but instead of crowning a glamorous queen, a dashing king was crowned. The week began with the movie "It's Your First Kiss Charlie Brown", and popcorn provided by Student Council. To get a good laugh, everyone gathered in the Little Theater during lunch and watched the best leg's contest. Mr. Gardner, Aaron Cantrell, James Brandeberry, and Zack Rix walked away with top honors. Even though marred by rain students still enjoyed watching the Dating Game. Everyone laughed as Joanna Hernandez asked, "Describe yourself as a box of cereal. What cereal would you be and why?"

During the week there was love in the air. Students bought their sweethearts carnations and purchased computer dating results.

Then came Friday 13th, the day of the rally. Everyone expected the usual, cheerleaders jumping around and screaming, but the students were in for a surprise! Forty teachers did the stroll to the ever popular song "Heard it Through the Grapevine." After being energized by the teachers, students were easily led into doing the Hokey Pokey by the powder puff cheerleaders.

Another week of fun and activity made this years Winter Festival a week to remember.

The Hispanic Mural Makes a Splash

This year there came to be a new expression of art on campus. It was the colorful and expressive mural. A few students participated in the planning and execution of the mural. Tina Hernandez was one of them. Here are some of her views.

What is so special about the mural?

"The mural is a gift showing what Hispanic-Americans went through in the past. It's an excellent explanation, that's what it's there for."

Why is the mural important to you?

"It's important to me because it shows what struggles my ancestors went through. It can also be passed on to future generations."

How does the mural make you feel?

"The mural makes me feel good. At first I didn't understand the background, the history, of the mural. Now I know more than I ever knew. It makes me think."

Who are the people who helped you the most? "Rocky Ortega Rodriguez and Tony Martinez were our counselors. They helped us work through the good days as well as the bad days. They took us on trips to see other murals. They even got Juanishi Orozco, who was our supervisor and muralist."

Many people put forth energy and hard work making the mural. The mural is something special that will be remembered by students for years to come.

WHO WROTE THE BOOK?

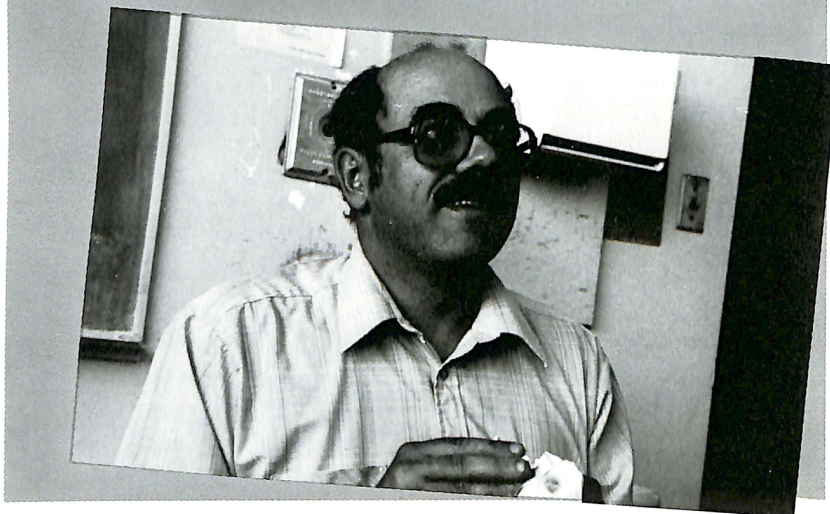

What a staff!

This book is the result of a lot of hard work, time, and effort on the part of the Ulatis Staff. The most exciting time to visit the yearbook class was when we were working on a deadline. There was constant demand for photographers to print pictures, editors to edit, and a fight to use the computer. There was always a shortage of rulers, proper croppers, and pens, but we got through it.

The yearbook staff was made up of a wide variety of people and personalities. Because of our differences, we were able to work well together and make a good team. Arriving early on Saturday mornings our true personalities shone through. The bed-ragged appearance made the effort less painful.

The editors were always in demand—Michele was the layout expert. She could draw a layout, liquid paper the entire thing, and begin again. Sid was the calm, cool and collected editor. Nothing phased him. Holly always got down to business when it came to her sports section. The editorial staff was very kind and very forgiving.

This was a good year, and we are proud to have brought this book to you.

Far Out People From Far Off Places

Vaca High was invaded from abroad, but no one was hostile. In fact, the Vaca High student body had greeted the invasion with open arms. Yes, the foreign exchange students have arrived.

This past year Vaca High hosted several exchange students. It was as great an experience for us as it was for them. Not only did they have a chance to learn about the real America, but we as well were broadened by their tales of far off lands and exotic cities, those of which we merely dream of, yet they call home.

When they were asked, over and over, "Is America what you thought it would be?" They smiled politely and began to answer the same monotonous question. Many of them replied that the U.S. was very different, yet they expected it to be. Anything was to be expected, even the unexpected.

With the school year ending they sadly said good-bye to all their new friends, new customs, and new family. Then they set off for their homes far away. Would they still speak the language, and remember everyone's name? The tears on their cheeks were a final farewell as the plane took off. No one would forget this memorable year.

Spirit. That's the name of the game. Or actually, the reason they attend the games. Whether they're Cheerleaders, Pom Pon, or Mascots, the goal of the pep squad is to promote spirit. Cheering at games, putting together pep rallies, and making posters is the pep squads contribution to the spirit of Vaca High.

"Who said dingy blond?" Not on this pep squad! Four girls are in Student Council, one being ASB President. Five are enrolled in the GATE program (Gifted And Talented Education,) while twenty-six others are taking honors classes. Cheerleaders must maintain the same G.P.A. as in any other sport. The average of the pep squad remains high, a 3.3. Also, eleven girls hold part-time jobs, not to mention the twelve or so hours per week spent on practices and games. Many others participate in extra-curricular sports and activities, such as softball, singing, acting, dance lessons, hula lessons, and even karate.

Once again, the Vaca High pep squad came out with flying colors at cheerleading camp in Santa Cruz. A total of 103 superior ribbons were awarded to the girls for their performances. The cheerleaders won a superior trophy for their home cheer. Heather Wolf was even asked to return in December to try out to be a USA cheerleading instructor.

We've Got It!

Coming to a new school and trying to make a name for oneself is often difficult. This group of girls seemed to fit right in as Junior Varsity Cheerleaders and Pom Pon girls. They managed to make the transition from being "big" ninth graders to having to take a back seat to the Varsity.

Fitting in time for practices and games was hard, especially since they were just getting used to High School and the load of course work. They even surpassed what could have been expected of them as most would stay and cheer on the Varsity teams. This devotion was the key to the success of these squads.

At camp, both groups of girls made a distinct impression on their peers and instructors. The Cheerleaders received a superior ribbon the highest award for the performance or their home cheer. Simultaneously, the Pom Pon girls were honored with a superior pennant. Could we expect anything less from these enthusiastic girls?

Dancing The Night Away

Whispers. Shaking. Giggles. This is what you would see and hear if you were on the field with the Vaca High Varsity Pom Squad before a performance. "Oh no! I forgot the routine!" exclaims one girl. "What's the first move?" questions another. "Shh!" reminds the captain. "Am I wearing bloomers?" asks a worried spirit leader.—The music absorbs the girls as they try to piece together the last three weeks of practice. Two minutes later, the nervousness returns as the music fades. "Did I mess up?" ponders one. "I wonder how we looked," thinks all of them. The audience's applause is barely heard as the last two minutes become a blackout in each girls mind.

Dull was not a word used to describe cheerleading camp in Santa Cruz last summer. Unpacking became a major chore when 32 girls brought enough food for 1000. Classes were hard, practice was tiring, and the girls didn't get much sleep. But this didn't dampen their spirit any, for the Varsity and JV Pom earned two spirit sticks.

Dare Not to Laugh!

They're not drillteam, they're not Pom Pon, they're not quite cheerleaders either. So who are those students dressed in fur clothing, and why do they enjoy making fools of themselves? They are our school mascots, of course! And being silly is the essence of it! This squad is probably the most carefree of any on the pep squad. They can do basically anything that they want to. There is no need for perfection, more mistakes make for a better cheer. Making the character come alive is something that every mascot strives for. Each must be witty, charming, creative, outgoing, and just plain crazy all rolled up in one. A mascot is two different people in and out of uniform. They must be, otherwise they would be carried away in a strait-jacket.

For this reason, mascot tryouts are different from any other. Each girl must come up with her own creative skit to perform. Many use songs, commercials, or TV shows as themes.

But if dressing up in a bulldog outfit does not seem like your thing, think again! Who else stays warm at football games?

Striving For Perfection!

"Thrilling," says Karen Harper.
 "Awesome," says Sarah Goreham.
 "Exciting," says Katie Ewing.

These are just some of the words used to describe the feeling of receiving a standing ovation at the World's Fair in Vancouver, Canada. What could be more rewarding after months of practice and fund raisers? While most of us were attending school from October 3rd through 7th, the members of the Vaca High Drill team were performing at the Plaza of Nations to three music routines. The drill team was asked to return and perform the following day, but they were leaving that day.

One might be amazed while watching the halftime of a football game. How do these girls with little braids in their hair achieve that energy, that perfection, and how do they do those splits and over-the-head kicks? Ask any one of them and they will tell you that it is the result of nothing but hard work. They practice from one to two hours per day, four days per week, in the blistering heat, or the freezing rain. No one can give any less than 110%, for there are 23 girls, and only 16 perform at each routine. This motivates each girl to do her best.

The girls say that getting on is easy, it's staying on that is difficult.

"S" for Service

The "S" club, a club apart from all other clubs. Standing apart from the mass of student body, the "S" club is a proud group of students. You know who they are, they're the kids on the corner fighting with the Boy Scouts to help little, old ladies across the street.

Actually the "S" club is a whole lot more than that. They are a club devoted to community service in Vacaville.

One of the groups major endeavors was the annual trip to the NUT TREE pumpkin patch. They accompanied a group of senior citizens from convalescent homes in the area.

President Jonathan Hunter explained that the club's commitment to the community is very much an important part of the high school. "It gives the community a chance to realize that high school kids are not just a bunch of punks who vandalize and get into trouble".

So, on to bigger and better things the "S" club goes. What a year.

The "S" Club is: Janet Chu, John Benton, Debbie Kent, Cari Conner, Shanna Peterson, Cassandra Gregory, Jody Mohr, Jenny Fisher, Scott Lee, Andy U'ren, Kim Stahl, Heather Stone, Anthony Cuellar, Tamiko Townsend, Stephanie Bergmen, Heidi Beers, Deanna Mohr, Wendi Hill, Lisa Demerest, Isabel Rabago, Kisha Leonard, Mano Hines, Jonathen Hunter, Kerrie Hunter, Norman Walker, Chrissy Otis

PHILOSOPHY CLUB

What is the Meaning of Life?

What is the meaning of life? If you were driving at the speed of light and you turned your headlights on, would they work? These are the kind of things you think of when you hear the word Philosophy. But there is a more serious side to philosophy and there's a group of students at the school who devote time and effort to exploring it.

As a new club on campus this year, the Philosophy Club was anxious to get things going. One of the main goals of the club was to raise questions and explore new areas that otherwise would be unexplored.

At the meetings the young philosophers discussed such issues as prejudice. Questions raised included, "Where does prejudice start, in the home or in the school?" The questions were thrown out by the members and eagerly discussed by the group as a whole. Each person competed to make their point.

When the year came to a close the club pondered their accomplishments. A sense of pride and accomplishment settled over the club. Another year was over but far from being wasted.

Exploring The Great Outdoors

The Science Club met on Tuesdays, every other week. It consisted of curious and intelligent students who had a "keen eye" for science.

This year the club diligently worked at selling Hershey Bars and M&M's, their goal was to raise enough money for a weekend camping trip to the Nevada Desert. Their determination payed off! In April the club was ready to closely explore the great outdoors. They studied such things as rock specimens, small critters, plants, and also star formations. They brought along both microscopes and telescopes. A successful journey it was, and a fun filled weekend to remember for those who were involved.

Here at Vacaville High School, room 48 is where some of our future Aeronotical Engineers, Doctors, and Lab Technicians originate. Only the future will tell what each member will contribute to society.

Associated Student Body

The Associated Student Body began the school year with the intent of promoting school spirit and pride. With a group made up of class officers and representatives equally distributed between the seniors, juniors, and sophomores, they were able to accomplish this deed. Student Council put on activities that everyone could participate in, such as Homecoming, Winter Festival, and the Talent Show. These activities added spice to the students monotonous school day.

With such a young group came creative ideas on how to let the entire student body be aware of student council business. Heather Wolf, the A.S.B. President, came up with the idea of having a Student Senate. This group consisted of elected delegates from every English class. They met once a month in the library to discuss student concerns and to learn about Student Council activities that were planned.

The efforts performed by the A.S.B. were well received by both the faculty and the student body. The assistant principle, Dan Wettstein, said at a Board of Education meeting that, "This year's Student Council was one of the best in five years."

...Musical Musicians

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to be in Band? Many people do. Although many have personal views toward Band. Others tend to predict the outcome of band. Reality will be the determining factor!

Do you want to ROCK? Do you want to ROLL? Band is a great place to start your musical career. It's free instruction from a great director. Under the direction of Rick Luther the band has performed fantastically at football games and other events.

There is always the next question in mind? How do you read music! Reading music takes a special talent. It's like knowing another language. A lot of time and effort is put into writing music. The hard part is learning to play that tune!

People think that it is easy to play an instrument. Wrong! Hours of practice is put into band. In the end the harmony is balanced out. The result- PERFECTION!

JOHNNY BELINDA IS A SUCCESS

Act Well Thy Part, There All The Honor Lies.

Year after year the Drama Club has introduced fine dramatic productions to Vaca High, this year being no exception. Johnny Belinda, this years production was a big hit, probably because it was a drama and not a comedy.

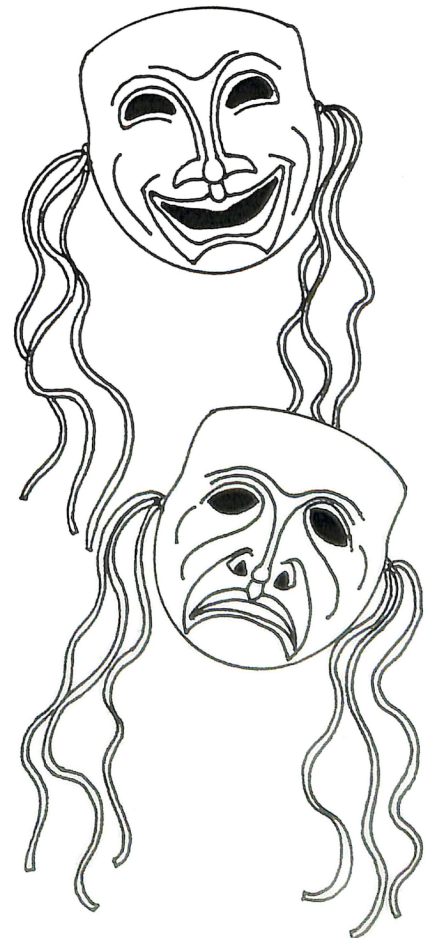

The cast and crew was pumped up opening night. Wendy Hasse (Belinda), played a deaf and mute girl who every one calls the "dummy", until Scott Slagle (Dr. Jack), the new doctor in town showed up. He taught her sign language so she could communicate with the rest of the town. Steve Crandall played Locky the town bully who ended up raping Belinda. Chrissy Ottis (Stella) was in love with Locky and ends up marrying him unaware of his crime. Other characters included John Gordon as Black McDonald who plays Belinda's father, Carrie Hunter as Maggie who plays Belinda's auntie, Mary Pekar and Arte Winters who play the town gossips and church fanatics.

This years production was a high point in the school year for Mrs. Edwards and the Drama Club, but just wait until next year.

GUYS AND DOLLS

Talent made this production possible. Endless hours of practice made this difficult production a success. The 1987 Fine Arts department presented Guys and Dolls, a spectacular musical about gangster life in the 1920's. With the guidance of Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Renold-Smith, and Mr. Luther how could anything not turn out spectacular? Very easily. Putting on a production is a difficult task, nevertheless Vacaville High's production of Guys and Dolls was excellently directed and performed. The leads, Sid Hansen, Chris Tutt, Ann Griswold, Tom Britt and all the other talented actors and actresses contributed all their talent to the production. Also, let us say that the stage craft crew and band devoted as much time as well. The story takes place in busy New York city. There were gamblers and chorus girls along with salvation army workers, and a variety of other types of people with eccentric occupation. Guys and Dolls never had a dull moment. Action always occupied the stage. Siskel and Ebert would have rated all the performances and the entire musical as a whole with a thumbs up recommendation "Guys and Dolls" all did a supreme job.

... Learning the "Tricks of the Trade"

Room 9, filled with aspiring newspaper personell, echoes with the sound of keyboards rattling. Student reporters, under the direction of editor Christine McClanahan and advisor Mr. Ray, are busy turning out stories for the "BARK".

Like the student reporters, ad manager Cheryll Cameron is busy billing companies for advertisement services. Along with her billing, Cheryll also solicits the community for Ads. She enlists the help of students, like Tracy Brooks, who help her with this task.

Photography for the "BARK" is taken by Becky Fernandez and Mike MacKenzie, who then develop and print their own pictures.

Along with developing thier own film, the "BARK" is one of the growing numbers of Northern California school newspapers to use word processors to type their stories into. They also typeset the stories and design the pages themselves.

In short, the "BARK" is a totally independent, self sustaining business whose objective is to put out the highest quality paper they can, while learning the "Tricks of the Trade".

A SHOWCASE OF TALENT

As the lights dimmed and the curtain slowly opened, the audience sat up in their seats and waited, anticipating the first act. Talent Show '87 had arrived.

Thanks to the efforts of the Student Council, this year's talent show was loaded with talent, ranging from singing to dancing and lip-synching to bands. After two dress rehearsals and long hours of practicing, the acts were polished and ready to go.

On the night of the show one could feel the magic in the air. The Community Center was packed and the audience was overwhelmed by the talent that was exhibited. All of the singers, bands and dancers performed to the best of their abilities. While the judges tallied the scorecards the band, "The Lounge Lizards", created a frenzy on stage. As they performed "Mony, Mony", "Wipe Out", and "Louie, Louie", the contestants gathered on stage and danced until the final decisions were made.

After waiting a few minutes, the winners were announced. Jane Adams won the fifth place prize of $50, The Badly Bruised Avocados from New York City won the fourth place prize of $60, Staci Arriaga won the third place prize of $70, Dina Stone won the second place prize of $95, and Tommy and the Coolers with the Travelin' Girls took home first place and $125. Congratulations to all the talent show contestants for their unforgettable performances.

"Let others praise ancient times; I am glad I was born in these." Although this quotation is from the works of a Roman poet, Ovid, who lived from 43 B.C. to A.D. 18, it might just as well have been written today.

Ancient and laborious methods of filling basic needs have been replaced by pre-processed foods, mass-produced clothing and pre-fabricated buildings. Old concepts of rapid communication and transportation pale by comparison with our use of computers, satellites and space shuttles. Our times are characterized by technological wonders, but there are boundless opportunities for further technical progress and improvements in the quality of life.

This year, as you graduate from high school, you will typically express aspirations for future achievement. Your success is more likely if you can keep forever young your commitment to accomplish your dreams. It is my hope that the future you create will make today seem like ancient times.

Congratulations to the Class of 1987 on your commencement!

What is different this year compared to your Freshman year?

Ricky Stevens-I get to go off campus. Also, it is easier because I have better teachers.

Geoffrey Alder-The girls are a lot fatter. The classes are easy, but it is a lot bigger.

Michelle Finkle-It's no big deal. It is a lot bigger, but it all seems the same.

Michelle Ruiz-I feel lower than when I was at Jepson. In ninth grade I felt superior to everyone.

Jenny Rehnberg-The atmosphere is different; it's more open. It isn't harder, but the teachers are better.

What is your favorite excuse for not doing your homework?

Ricky Stevens-I left it at home, or else my sister burned the garbage cans last night and we were up all night.

Melissa Ruiz-I just tell 'em I didn't do it, or I tell them I had a physical emergency.

Jenny Rehnberg-I usually do my homework, but if I don't I usually just tell them I didn't do it.

LOOKING BACK

As the year drew to an end, some students felt relief, some were sad, while still others were overcome with uncertainty. For the seniors the reality that their last year of high school was almost over, was painful. What would the future hold? College, work, possibly even marriage? The juniors for the most part were happy to see the year ending. Their next year would be their last and traditionally the best. The sophomores looked forward becoming upperclassmen.

The past will stay with us always in memory and heart. Who could forget the football teams close loss to Cordova? Surely the students who attended the Christmas Ball would not soon forget the magic in the air that night. The Senior Prom at the Sir Frances Drake will be remembered always as a special night. Even the lunches and times just spent hanging out with close friends will be remembered and missed for a long time to come.

The classes of '87, '88, and '89 have left their unique impressions on the campus of Vaca High. Now the seniors go out into the world to make even stronger more lasting impressions.

James and Denise share a joke.

The writing of this letter means that the 1987 Ulatis is almost completed and for all the aggravation I should now be happy. However, this letter also brings with it the reality that my last year of high school is drawing to an end. My work on the yearbook staff has been my proudest accomplishment. This book was the product of a lot of hard work by a variety of people. I would like first to thank my father. I thank you for understanding about all the time, that I didn't get to spend with you. I love you as a friend as well as a father. Secondly, I would like to thank our advisor, Mr. Swenerton. You put in so much work and took more than your fair share of abuse, a mere thank you seems almost laughable. You're the best — don't ever stop advising, it would be such a loss. Now, I would like to thank all of my editors starting with my co-editor, Sid Hansen. You were somewhat a silent partner to me. Don't ever feel like you put in any less than I did into this book. Without you sticking your neck out with me, nothing new would have ever gotten off the ground. I'm sure there were times when we could have killed one another. I'm glad we didn't, because I love you too much. Thanks. Next, a word to my sports editor, Holly Huffman. I know yearbook wasn't what you expected. First you were railroaded into being sports editor and that was nothing compared to some of the other tasks — like the faculty section that got dumped on you. Knowing that I didn't have to worry about anything you were doing made my life a better place to be. I will never know how two such totally different people ever got to be such good friends. What I do know is that I'm glad it happened. Sometimes thanks just aren't enough, but they're all you have. Thank you for all of your help and for being there for me. I would like next to thank my photo editor Darren Thompson. I should first apologize to you for the permanent indentation of Mr. Swenerton's overbite on your touche. I thank you for doing what you could and standing up to take the blame for you couldn't. A special thanks to Wes Barkwill, our business manager. You did manage to give everyone the business. Thank you for all the help with deadlines, all the ads, for letting me push your car, but most of all for being my bud. I wish you luck always, but more than that I wish you ska. I leave you with these final words "Beware of yacht beasts (they love little baby faced boys like you)".

And now on to the rest of the staff: you guys are the real backbone of the book. Bob Buehler — some would call you a weirdo, while others a saint. All I know is that you did what I ask and I thank you for it. Stay unusual, because people like you...are...well...people like you. David Camp — I have only one thing to say to you, "Get a haircut". Just kidding. Thanks for all your photo help. Sandra Ceron — I know you were expecting just a "good job" and actually that is all I have for you. I just want you to know that we did notice you at deadlines. Thanks for all the help. Kathleen Connaughton — I thank you for all your input and your willingness to work no matter what the task. You have to be the most gung ho person I've ever met. Thanks. Matt Davis — Thanks for the photo help and for putting up with Holly. Lisa Gavert — I don't know how you juggled all of your activities, but I'm glad you did. Thank you for the time and energy. You were a real asset to the staff. Barney Griswold — I must admit that you probably spent the most time of any of the photographers in the darkroom (unfortunately, you were usually hiding from Mr. Swenerton). Michael Mackenzie — I don't really know what one thing to thank you for. You did a little bit of everything from layout and copy to printing pictures, and you did it all well. Emilio Reyes — Thanks for all the smiles and smart cracks but most of all thank you for your time and effort. I knew how many obligations you had, but I also knew that you wouldn't let us down. Micah Shull — Thank you for all your wonderful artwork. Stay with it. You have a real talent don't ever loose it. Kim Suffia — You're pretty, smart, and dependable. I only wish you would have joined the staff earlier. Tammy Smith — I thank you for your ideas and hard work. Lynn Williams — Thank you for bringing our idea for personal ads to life. Without you they never would have happened. Cym Montalvo — We were sorry to see you go. Thanks for all the help. Denise Stevens — Thanks for all the help. You and Lisa always came through on your assignments and even some that weren't yours. Christy Wold — You didn't do bad for a kid from the garden. Thanks for all the help and all the B.S. Stay cute (you get away with more that way). Tony Benedetti — Believe it or not I missed you second semester. I can only hope that someday, you'll realize that your outrageousness is a real gift. Jennifer Johnston — After running away from Tony all first semester, you really did deserve a break. We missed you on staff. Thanks for the help when we really needed it. Last but by no means least a very special thanks to our yearbook representative Jim Gillespie — I thank you for all your ideas and all your help. It's a rare person who finds the perfect occupation. Stay with it always. You're the best Herff has!

Well the 1987 school year is over with and so is the production of the 1987 Ulatis. The class of 1987 will no longer continue their education as students in the halls of Vaca High, yet their days gone by are hopefully preserved in the superb edition of this yearbook. I hope that not only at the present but in the years to come, this book will be a treasured keepsake and it will recall many warm thoughts and memories of your high school days. When I first arrived at Vaca High in my junior year, I had my doubts about this school. As time wore on and new friends were made, a bit of bonding started taking place. Then my senior year came around and I thought "wow". I'll be graduating from one of the best schools in California and I'm proud of it. During my junior year I was a first timer in the class of Yearbook — I loved it! Strong relationships were built between me and other staff members and its odd not having them around this year. I would definitely say a strong relationship was developed between Michele and I (I mean we were each others co-editors). I will truly miss Michele when school is out, she is a really wonderful person and an excellent editor. I could write this whole note on her and her accomplishments, but she might get embarrassed so I think I'll move on and talk about the backbone of the book — the staff. Wes — what a stud! Wes was our ever so faithful business manager. He really got us some awesome ads, whats your secret? Good luck in "ska" prospecting and keep up your humor that brought out the fun side of yearbook during deadlines. Bob — Bob, you were ragged on by every member of the staff and your still kicking. You did a great job with your talent at picture taking and developing. Best of luck always! Dave — Most of you photographers got the raft from everybody, but without your pictures where would we be. Thanks for everything. Sandra — Heres to the quiet girl who sat in the corner and was always working diligently, but went out with one of the most radical guys ever. Thanks a lot Sandra and best of luck. Kathy — Guess what Kathy, I forgot the year on those M&M's? You were one of the best workers that the book had and you were always there in times of trouble. Excellent job, well done! Matt — Ah, another photographer. How did you put up with it all. Thanks for all your sport pictures and the time you spent in the dark room after school. Lisa — Boy, now this girl might have well taught the class. She was always the first one done with her spreads and was always willing to help someone else out when she was done. It wouldn't be complete without you Lisa, thanks a lot. Holly — Don't worry Holly, I won't say anything to bad about you. Holly was our Sports Editor this year and boy what an editor — hustle, hustle, hustle. She learned to take Tony's teasing with a grain of salt (good endurance Holly) and she probably has one of the best friends one could have. Jennifer — Well Jennifer, it was real, it was fun, but the Christmas card was "real fun". Thanks for everything and be a good little girl and keep in touch O.K., love ya! Mike — What a worker, you really knew your stuff and you had some excellent layouts. I hope your as proud of this book as I am. Thanks a bunch. Cym — Sure did miss you Cym. You were a lot of fun to have on staff and your layouts and ideas went far. Thanks a lot and best of luck always, take care. Emilio — Talk about talking a lot, this boy never shut-up. You were an excellent staff member and were always keeping Swenerton on his toes. Thanks a bunch for everything. Dawn — Boy where those personal ads fun, or what? Thanks for the excellent layouts and copy and best of luck next year on the staff. Micah — The staff artist! This kid can draw anything under the sun. You should be darn proud of this book because half of your work is in it. Thanks a lot for the Drama masks and the "Forever Young" and everything else you drew. Tammy — Ah, another personal ads person — weren't they just so fun? Thank you isn't enough, you were always there when we needed you. Denise — I'm sure you enjoyed the experience of working with Holly on all those sport layouts. Thanks a lot for your ideas and accomplishments and best of luck always. Kim — You always waited so patiently for my money. You seemed to be the only one who could hold together during our deadlines maybe because your layouts were always done on time. Thanks a bunch and take care. Darren — Tramp! What can I say except offer you my sympathy for being the photography editor that everybody ragged on. Thanks for all the pictures even though we had to shoot them all about three times. Best of luck always! Lynn — Well what do you know, another personal ads person. Hope you had fun with them and I hope your proud of your work in the book. Thanks a lot. Christy — Now when this girl went to work she really went to town. Hope you can handle the staff next year because I pity you, a lot. Thanks for helping Michele and me in times of trouble and thanks for all the fun times during class (ya hoe). Tony — Ah, my good buddy Tony. Now this character really acted out his part on the staff — the kick around, push around person. You had some great copy (contrary to what Holly says). Take care and "have a party". Sara — Thanks for all the work you accomplished, I just wish things would have worked out better. Take care. Mr. Swenerton — Chalk up another year, we did it. Although deadlines got a bit risque you never really tore anyone's head off — shucks. Thanks for being the great advisor that you were and I'll stop by and visit you sometime next year. Take care and thanks for everything. Jim — Hey its our Herff Jones representative and we can all thank him for the table of contents this year. Thanks for everything and sorry about your background that those dogs kinda mangled.
